The granules are handsome in appearance and perfectly soluble, and the granules are handsome in appearance and perfectly soluble, and the granules preparation yields a draught which, as a Cooling and Rafreshing Salins Beverage of peculiarly pleasant flavour, is instantly distinguishable from the limitations.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS.

Mr. FARNELL, in reply to Mr. M'Elhone, said the traveilling stock reserves from Boggabri to Coolah, via Gullendaddy, Bando, Bomera, and Binnia Flains were gazetted, and were Nos. 906, 916, 976, 978, 668, and 429. The question of withdrawing from pastoral lease No. 668, from Bomera Creek to Coolah, was under consideration. A small portion of Mr. M'Master's fence to the west of reserve No. 175 was within the travelling stock reserve, but he was not aware of it interfering with the public or the passage of stock. Instructions had been issued to remove the fencing at the water reserve, Miller's Creek.

Mr. FARNELL, in reply to Mr. Bennett, said neither Mr. W. C. Edwards nor any officer of the suction sales branch had made any complaint of clerks in that branch being frequently absent from duty on visits to the French café, George-street. The hon. gentleman also gave Mr. Bennett information concerning the selection of Alexander Donald. Mr. FARNELL, in reply to Mr. Dangar's question, gav information about a refund to Alfred Wood, of Narrabri, at order for which had been sent to A. H. East on February 18, 1878.

Mr. WEBB said if the provision in the sixth clause were retained, the proposal of the hon. member for the Northern Gold-fields was a very legitimate one. But he did not care for the sixth clause. We could do wery well without it, and we could do very well without the amendment. We had better give a lump sum, and have nothing to do with the auditing of the company's accounts. It was no business of ours what the company made. If they paid large dividends there was no doubt there would soon be active competition. (Hear, hear.) It was better to leave the resolution as it was. A provise, however, should be inserted requiring the commany to sign the contract by a certain date, and if the Postmaster-General did not move an amendment to that effect he would do so.

Mr. LUCAS thought the proposal of the hon, member for they must be prepared to show that it would return reasonable profit on the capital they invested.

Mr. COPELAND said the representative of the colomy by the wool, and it was simply a waste of time try to get an amendment passed, because the Postmaster-General threw in the faces of members the assertion that the company would not agree to it. Why, it was a commercial transaction which the company would like to see carried into effect, just as much as the colomy would like to see carried into effect, just as much as the colomy would like to see the cable. That was proved by the fact of the company having returned to the negotiations afject they had been broken off, and offered more favourable terms. [Mr. Bulns: The company have spoken out on the matter.] Yes, but the colony had not if the company would not carry out the work plenty of capitalists would do so, and if the ompany had never been in existence the colony would have had a cable. The company laid down the original cable without any subsidy, because they thought it would be a the planty of capitalists would do so, and if the ompany had never been in existence the colony would have had a cable. The company had down the original cable without any subsidy, because they thought it would be a the own of the company, and he was surprised to find hon. members prepared to throw away public money over it. Twenty years was too long a period to bind any company had the science during the last five years, and considering that the whole system of telegraphy neight be upset in another ive years. The company found an easy money market, they would carry out the contract; if they did not, they would not care for the colonies at all. [Mr. McElhonn: Heart, bear,] Ten years was, perhaps, to short a period to bind the company to, but he would support an amendment for reducing the twenty years to fifteen.

The amendment was withdrawn.

Mr. McElhone said the Government were trying to lead members by their noses, and an attempt was being between whem it purported to be an agreement. The Government stood by it, and did not allow a single word to be altered. He had admitted that a course similar to this had been taken before. He alluded to the case of the bank agreement, which was a peculiar case; and he protested then, as he did now, against that method of procedure. He took the objection that in his judgment the House was not the proper authority to make an agreement; and he laid it down as a sound principle that the Executive Government ought to make the agreement, and that then Parliament should be asked to approve or disapprove of it.

define was not the proper authority to make an agreement; and he laid it down as a sound principle that the Executive fovernment ought to make the agreement, and that then a Parliament should be saled to approve or disapprove of it.

Mr. FITZPATRICK said that anyone listening to this second night's discussion would be a little puzzled what we had net here for, such were the varying and inconsistent attitudes of hon. members. What had we been aiming at f' Each Government for years past had been seeking to obtain a duplication of the cable. It was not as a political question that it was taken up, but as one affecting the commercial and the highest interests of the colony. The Government of Sir Henry Parkes got the length of making an agreement with three of the colonics and a gentleman who undertook to bring a company into existence, but who failed in the attempt, and hence nothing came of it. This Government had nade an agreement in the same spirit with three of the colonics and the company which was described in the existing cable, an agreement for a less subsidy and for a aborter period. The difference therefore was wholly in favour of this agreement. The Government had made a bargain with these colonies and the company, and they asked the House to ratify that bargain—not to make it. This was a vertible sgreement, and if it were rejected or attered in any material particular, all that had been done would fall to the ground. Two or three hon. members, following the able address of the hon. members for the Northern Gold-fields last night, had assumed that this bargain was a had one, because it provided for a cable to be laid in shallow waters; but the argument to the ways, for if a cable so laid was more liable to get out of order, it was also more easily repaired, as compared with a cable laid in deep waters, which could hardly be got at at all. We had a better bargain than ever before obtainable, and the proper action for the House to take one of temper which followed. Seeing that there were four touched to th

Mr. TERRY blamed the Postmaster-General for delay-ing the business by attempting to provent the hon. member for Cauterbury speaking on the resolution. He though they ought to deal with the agreement as a whole, although he claimed his right to vote for amendments on any of the clauses. clauses.

Sir Henry Parkes's amendment was negatived.

Mr. GREENWOOD reiterated his question whether, if there were a reduction in the rates be England and India, the colonies would have the bof it.

Mr. BURNS said they would, and he had no objection a clause being inserted in the agreement claiming the benefit.

Mr. BURNS said they would, and he had no objection to a clause being inserted in the agreement elaining that benefit.

Mr. COPELAND moved an amendment the effect of which was to limit the reduction on Press messages to 60 per cent, instead of 75 per cent, and to secure a reduction of 25 per cent, on ordinary messages.

Mr. WEBB urged the withdrawal of the amendment.

Mr. MACINTOSH thought the Government should give some promise that they would bring about a reduction in the interests of the public.

Mr. BURNS said he would promise to bring the question of subsidy under the notice of his collesgues. As to the question of reduction in the charges, the Governments had made the best arrangements they could; any further reduction must be considered at some future time.

Mr. FARNELL explained that a reduction in the charges on Government and on Press messages was really a reduction in the interests of the public.

The amendment was negatived by 30 to 10.

Mr. M'ELHONE still believed that the public should have some concession from the Government, and he moved as an amendment that after the word "rate" in the sixth line the following words be added: "provided nevertheless that public messages generally shall be charged at the same rate as Government messages."

The amendment was negatived by 28 to 10.

The paragraph was agreed to.

Paragraph 6 was submitted as follows:—"That the Government shall have the right during the currency of the subsidy aforessid to purchase the company's cable lines and other property between Singapore and Port Darwin on equitable terms, to be fixed, in case of difference, by arbitration; twelve months' previous notice to be given to the company of the intention to exercise this right. Provided always that the right shall not be exercisable till the company shall for five years have paid a dividend equal to 10 per cent."

Mr. COPELAND thought that some alteration would have to be made to this clause. He would like to know upon what capital the 10 per cent. dividend was to be paid. This compan Paragraph 10 was put, after remarks from Mr. CopeLAND, who proposed an amendment to the effect, that if communication by the cable was interrupted by war, it should, at the termination of the war, be restored by the company, and not at the cost of the Governments interested.

The committee was addressed by Mr. Hungerson and Mr. W. DAVIES. The amendment was then negatived, on division, by 27 to 5.

Sir JOHN ROBERTSON moved the omission of the words "so soon as the war or other contingencies shall have terminated," pointing out that the time when we required the use of the cable most was during a time of war. Mr. Burns consented to the amendment.

Mr. DRIVER contended that the resolution could be

Mr. CAMERON ruled that it was in order.

After some remarks from Mr. W. DAVIES, Mr. DAY, and Mr. MELHONE,
Mr. TERRY moved that the Chairman leave the chair

SITTINGS FOR CAUSES.

In Banco.—(Before his Honor the CHIEF JUSTICE and Jury of Four.)

BARAGRAY AND ANOTHER V. CHEEN AND ANOTHER.
Jury: Messrs. Joseph Dobeon, H. L. Smith, J. E. Batoman, and W. T. Jackson.

Mr. Darley, instructed by Mr. Dunn, appeared for the plaintiffs; Mr. Butler, Q.C., and Mr. Windeyer, instructed by Mr. Driver, for the defendants.

This was an action of ejectment, brought by Dennis Bangray and Mary Paton, to recover possession of a piece of land, at the intersection of Gloucester-street with Essexstreet, from Richard A. W. Green and Isaac Howard, trustees of Mrs. George Green.

Mr. Bunns consented to the amendment.

After remarks from Mr. M'Elhons and Mr. Copeland, the amendment was passed, and the clause, as amended, was agreed to, on division. Ayes, 27; noes, 6.

Parsgraphs II and I2 were agreed to.

Mr. Bunns proposed to add a clause fixing the maximum charges at 6s. 4d. for governmental, 6s. 1d. for press, and 9s. 6d. for other messages. He did this at the wish of hon, gentlemen who had requested it.

Mr. TERRY submitted that the Chairman could not put this resolution as it had not been remitted from the House.

Mr. M. H. Stephen, instructed by Mr. J. Thompson, appeared for the plaintiff: Mr. Pilcher, instructed by Mr. Abbott, for the defendant.

Charles Dobson such Samuel G. Davison, for commission on the sale of a storekeeper's business at Lawrence. Clarence River, for £7250 at 24 per cent., amounting to £181 5s.

The defendant pleaded never indebted, and denied that he had employed the plaintiff as his agent, or had promised him any commission.

The evidence was very contradictory.

After counsels addresses and his Honor's direction. The jury without retiring returned a verdict for the plaintiff for the amount claimed, £181 5s.

McARTHY AND ANOTHER V. BLACKER.

Jury: Messars. D. J. O'Connor, R. Thompson, Mossa Moss, and P. O'Dowd.

Horbert M'Carthy and William Anthony Kingscote, carrying on business as M'Carthy and Kingscote, sued James Blacker for trespassing with sheep on the plaintiffs run, Coomoo Coomoo. £1900 was claimed.

The defendant had not appeared or pleaded; the plaintiff had entered up judgment for want of a plea.

The jury now had to assess the damages.

It appeared from the evidence that the plaintiffs were the lessees of the Coomoo Coomoo sheep station on the Liverpool Plains. The defendant was the owner of and readed on a selection on a neighbouring run. The area of, his land was 2000 area, on which he nominally kept bety-en 6000 and 7000 sheep, which virtually depastured on the plaintiffs' run, boxing with their sheep, and destoving the grass and water to such an extent that a station had to be remed in the New England district, to which the plaintiffs sent away about 5000 of their aheep.

The jury assessed the damages of £1000.

Jury: Messrs. H. Solomon, F. G. Bennett, Moss Saber, and T. B. Dearin.

Mr. Butler, Q.C., and Sir George Innes, instructed by Messrs. Shorter and Fitzgerald, appeared for the plaintid Mr. Want, instructed by Mr. Thos. Read, for the defendant.

seems. Shorter and Fitzgerald, appeared for the plaintiff:
Mr. Want, instructed by Mr. Thos. Read, for the defendant.

Joseph Henry Decent sued Bartholomew Rush for slander. The words complained of were: "There are things planted under the hill; Mr. Douglas is coming it on Decent." "I will send the police after him, to take possession of these borses and cows. What has become of the cow that used to run at his house? There are also sixteen or seventeen hides not accounted for. I am going to Sydney in the morning to see the trustees; I have got quite enough to put him in Berrima gool." "The estate has been robbed by Decent; things have been planted."

El000 was claimed.

The defendant pleaded that he was not guilty.
From the evidence it appeared that the plaintiff, a store-keeper at Kangaloon, becoming embarnessed in money matters assigned his estate to trustees for the benefit of the creditors. The defendant was a creditor to the extent of £100. The plaintiff's estate was sold by auction, and some things were bought in and remained in the plaintiff's possession. Some of the words alleged were not proved, and the others appeared to little more than rumours,—except some statements made to one of the trustees. The principal cause of action was that the defendant in speaking of the plaintiff to the estate." No special damage was proved. No evidence was called for the defendant, After Mr. Want had addressed the jury, his Honor summed up.

The jury after retiring for ten minutes, returned a verdice for costs.

ANNIVERSARY OF SEDAN.—September 2 being the anniversary of the battle of Sedan, festal plays were performed in all the schools in Berlin, and Divine service was celebrated in many of the churches in presence of numerous congregations. Excursions were organised by the Gymnastic and Warriors Associations, and festive meetings were held in many places. The streets are profusely decorated with flags, and many shop windows contain busts, portraits, and monograms of the Emperor and Crown Prince surrounded by the German national colours. Most places of business are closed, and gala performances are being given this rewning at all the theattres. Numerous preparations have been made for illuminating the city to-night. From most of the towns of Germany intelligence was received of the festival being observed in the same manner as in the capital.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1878.

In the Legislative Council, yesterday. At the time appointed for the commencement of business the President counted the members in attendance, and finding only thirteen present, and these being insufficien to form a quorum, he declared the House adjourned to

In the Legislative Assembly, yesterday, Questions were asked by Messra. J. DAVIES, M'ELHONS

Questions were saked by Messrs. J. DATES, M'ELRONS, BENNETT, BAWDEN, MURPHY, HURLEY (H.), and CAMERON, and answered by Ministers.

Mr. FITZPATRICK desired to explain that in the debate of Tuesday, he had said Mr. Smart's personal character and financial position had saved the colony from embarrassment. That was somewhat overstrained, and did injustice to Mr. Samuel.

injustice to Mr. Samuel.

Mr. Cammon also explained that he had not, in the debate of last night, attacked the Press generally, but only

The House west into committee for the further considera-tion of the duplicate cable agreement.

Mr. Bunns, to meet the wishes of honorable members withdraw an amendment on paragraph 6 to enable provious paragraphs to be discussed. The presemble was amended to the medical Mr. Bunns. on the motion of Mr. Bunns.

Paragraph 1, fixing the subsidy at £32,400 per annum, was agreed to, after debate by Meegrs. Copelland, Bunns, Pilonen, When, Ludas, Hundhandon, Greenwood, and after a division, ayes 44, noss 3.

nd after a division, ayes 44, noes 3. In paragraph 2, Mr. W. DAVIES moved the reduction the term of the contract from 20 years to 15. After debate by Messrs. M.Elhonz, Lucas, Hoskins, Bunns, Corr-LAND, CHARLES, W. DAVIES, HUNGERFORD, WEBE LYNCH, and Sir JOHN ROBERTSON, the amends

In paragraph 3 exception was taken to the term force magicus, and, after discussion, in which Mesers. M'Elenoir, Burns, and Macintons took part, the words "the act of God or the Queen's enemies" were substituted, and the paragraph was agreed to.

Paragraph 4 was similarly amended and agreed to.

In paragraph 5, after discussion by Messra M'ELHONZ, BURNS, W. DAVIES, LUCAS, GREENWOOD, Sir HENRY

BURNS, W. DAVIES, LUCAS, GREENWOOD, Sir HENRY PARKES, Messrs. ECKPORD, and MACINTOSH. GREENWOOD, Sir HENRY PARKES, Messrs. ECKPORD, and MACINTOSH. GREENWOOD, Sir HENRY PARKES moved that the Chairman leave the flam of the House in dealing with the resolution. There was no agreement to discuss. The Government were simply saking the Parliament to help them to make an agreement instead of bringing down one already signed and waiting the sanction of Parliament. The Postmaster-General had arise in Central deals the Macintosh and the Macintosh and Company of the Sanction of Parliament. the sanction of Parliament. The Postmaster-General had also told the House that he meant to sak the other colonies to agree to an additional subsidy of £20,000 to reduce the charge for telegrams to the general public. How, then, could this be called an agreement? The Government were frittering away their responsibility. As to the contract proposed, it was all in favour of the company, and not the public.

Mr. CHARLES said a more scandalous exhibition had never been witnessed than the meult offered to the agent of the company by the mamber for the Upper Hunter.

Mr. BURNS was not surprised at the disposition of the member for Centerbury to sasail the Government. What action had he himself taken in regard to his-cable proposition? He got the House to approve of an agreement which fell to the ground. Was that bringing down a completed agreement? The project now before the House was by far the best ever submitted.

y far the best ever submitted. Sir Haway Parkes asked what the agreement of 1874 had to do with the question. But it only proved his point, for that agreement was not amended seriatim in committee, for that agreement nor amended at all.

Mr. Tranv said the committee, having been called to consider the agreement, must act for the good of the public, not of the company. As to Colonal Glover, he ought not to be insuled, but he should not have been present all through the debate.

tion of the term of the contract proved how small a majority wave in favour of this contract. Three other Parliaments one-and-three-quarter million acree per would have to discuss the question, and all might make annum, although there are only about 150,000 families in the whole colony. It is an electrical three per colony.

Mr. M'ELEONE did not care whom he offended, he

Mr. M'ELHONE did not care when he offended, he should do his duty to the public. Ministers had no business to have invited Colomel Glover to be present. He had meant no insult, but had spoken the truth.

Mr. FARMELL felt it his duty to above that the member for Canterbury had misled the House. The agreement of 1874 was but a skeleton one, and had been submitted to Parliament. Many other agreements had been discussed clause by clause, and this was the common mode of procedure. In regard to the charges for telegrams there were certain limits that could not be exceeded, for the company would not concede more.

there were certain limits that could not by exceeded, for the company would not concede more.

After a few words from Sir HENRY PARKES,

Mr. FITEPATRICK said the discussion was out of place.
Here was a definite agreement submitted to Parliament as the skelston one of the Park's Government was, and which stood in the better position? They were not asking the House to make an agreement, but to approve of one. He thought the right way was to accept or reject t, but members had thought well to attempt amendments. It had been asked, what if the Victorian Assembly also made amendments? He did not think they would be so absurdly nonsengical, but would accept or reject the arresement as nonsensical, but would accept or reject the agreement as a whole. This contract was the best yet effered, and it was unfair first to deal with it seriation, and then blame the overnment for consenting.

Sir John Robentson accused the Postmaster-General SH JOHN ROBERTSON accused the Pestmaster-General of causing the discussion on the general question. But the did not see what other course Ministers could have taken. He censured those who complained of the presence of Colonel Glover behind the Spacker's chair and the terms in which reference had been made to him.

He supported the agreement in its integrity.

Mr. Termy regretted this interruption, but threw the blame on the Postmaster-General.

The discussion on paragraph 5 was continued by Messrs-GREENWOOD, COPELAND, WEBE, MACINTOSH, BURNS, FARNELL, M'ELHONE, and Sir JOHN ROBERTSON, two mendments were negatived on division, and the paragraph

The 6th paragraph, giving the colonies the power to pur chase, was withdrawn.

Debate ensued on the 7th paragraph respecting the time when the cable should be completed, in which Messrs.

COPELAND, BURNS, BAWDEN, HUNDERPORD, WEBS, and M'ELHONE took part, and after division it was agreed to as introduced.

The 8th paragraph, making the subsidy commence four months after the signing of the contract, provided the lines be completed within eight months, was after debate by Mesers. WEBE, W. DAVIES, HUNGERFORD, BURNS, FITZ-PATRICK, M'ELHONE, BAWDER, COPELAND, and GREENrood, agreed to on division. Ayes 21; Noes 11. The 9th paragraph was agreed to without discussion.

Paragraph 10, dealing with interruptions through war or other like cause, was after discussion by Messrs. COPELAND, HUNGERFORD, W. DAVIES, Sir JOHN ROBERTSON.

Idears. Grax, M'ELRONE, Day, amended and agreed to Paragraphs 11 and 12 were agreed to without discussion Mr. Burns moved a new clause fixing the maximum charges for telegrams.

Objection being taken to its admission, the CHAIRMAN lecided that it was in order, whereupon Mr. TERRY moved him out of the chair to report the point of order to th

Speaker. In a mount was agreed to.

The resolution was reported to the House and its reception was made an order of the day for next Wednesday.

The House adjourned at ten minutes to 2 until 4 o'cock

The Government have now submitted to Parliament their Amended Land Bill, by which they have announced their intention to stand or fall. It is inevitable that a measure of such importance must make or mar a Ministry; but it is unfortunate that the question itself should be computenced by such an issue. Violent partisans who may be opposed to the bill will vote for it to save the Government, and it will not be easy for either side to disabuse their minds of party prejudice and deal with the measure seconding to its merits. The one feature of the bill standing out commently before all others is the abolition defects of the bill. Why not make the first instalment payable in every case a year after the date of the application, with three months grace, if that be necessary? Another of these minor defects is the creation of what is termed "a fee-simple conditional," which is to issue to the applicant on payment of the deposit. How will the law of property deal with estates of this kind? An estate less than of fee should be designated by some other term than "fee-simple."

The main question, however, is the differ-debtors of the Crown for ever, provided they pay interest. Under the Act of 1876 condiments without interest, making the price paid exactly one pound per acre in fifteen years. Reckoning the interest at the rate of five per cent per annum, it would take twenty-eight instalments of a shilling per annum, and one of four-pence in the twenty-ninth year to complete a purchase, and obtain the fee simple of a free selection. Add the five ahillings deposit, and we get a total payment to the State under the existing law, of £1 18s. 4d. per acre, principal and interest included, and within a period of thirty-two years. What the Government propose, therefore, is in effect to reduce the price of land to all thurse free selectors by the amount of 13s. 4d. per acre, which is exactly 40 per cent. on the total price to which free selectors are now liable. Never before, in the history of this total price to which free selectors are now liable. Never before, in the history of this colony, was such a proposition made by any Government. If nobody cared to take up present price, there might be some sense in it; but in spite of three bad seasons we are still of a motion for an address; it would have selling land to free selectors at the rate of one-and-three-quarter million acres per annum, although there are only about 160,000 families in the whole colony. It is as clear as daylight that the land is not being bought for homesteads and settlement, but for speculation and for the creation of large private estates at a nominal price. And if this is being done to such a dangerous extent at the present price, it is worse than madness to dream for a moment of reducing that price by 40 per cent. We are utterly astonished that any Government could be found that would have either the conscience or the folly make such a proposal.

But that is not all. Grant these terms to the new free selectors, and is there a man out of Gladesville capable of believing that the new terms will not have to be extended to Land is worth far more now than it was when they took up their holdings, and if the Government itself lowers the price for a better article in the face of an expensive demand, nothing can resist the cry that the worse article shall be reduced to the same price. In fact, Ministers are inviting the Crown debtors to agitate for a new bill to relieve them of a part of their obligation. At present their debt amounts to nearly nine millions sterling, on which the interest will be £450,000 per annun. Capitalise the whole in the terms provided by the Act of 1875, and that interes amounts to no less than eight millions sterling which is the sum that will have to be surrendered to the old free selectors if the new bill become poor struggling families who are vainly try-ing to eke a subsistence out of a few acres of land on which they have settled, and which they are cultivating, for such families are few, and to those few it will make little difference for the few acres in their posses sion. It is the wealthy squatters, who hold at least one-half of all the conditionallypurchased land in the colony, to whom this enormous bribe will be paid; while the toiling artizans of the cities and towns, who annot leave their occupations to settle on the land, and who constitute the bulk of the population, will have to pay the bribe in the form of higher taxes. Unless the people are utterly demented they will treat this new agrarian folly with the contempt and scorn deserves.

Sir HENRY PARKES has distinguished him self in office by a general disposition to act in conformity with constitutional practice; and he is generally entitled to be reg speaking with authority upon questions of constitutional principle. The objection he took last week to the action of the Ministry in the matter of the Exhibition vote was however, somewhat out of perspective, and scarcely deserving of the importance which he attached to it. The case is a very simple one. The Government had promised the Agricultural Society that a con-ditional grant in aid of the Exhibition should be asked for. But time was rapidly passing, and there was none to spane subscriptions were not coming in fast, and the uncertainty still surrounding the que the question itself should be complicated by of assistance from the public revenue kept them in check. It was desirable on grounds that this uncertainty should removed as speedily as possible. But the financial statement had not been made, and able interval might elapse before the Estimates were submitted, and a still longer prominently before all others is the abolition one before there would be any prospect of interest on all future free selections. Five of interest on all future free selections. Five shillings per acre must be tendered with the application to purchase, and the balance is to be paid in fifteen annual instalments of one shilling per acre, with power to pay the whole balance after the expiration of five years on the production of proof that the conditions of residence and improvement have been fulfilled. The three years' grace between payment of the five shillings deposit and the first instalment of the balance is also to be abolished, and purchasers must begin to pay at the rate of one shilling per acre between the first of January and the first of April in the year following the date of their application. Applicants, therefore, who take upland on the 31st of December of any year must the Herald.

> Ministry, instead of advising the Crown, asked the House to approach the Crown for ence in the price of land which the new proposal will make. At present conditional pur-chasers under the Act of 1861 are liable for adoption of this course, although it was not interest after three years from the date of purchase at the rate of five per cent per road upon a constitutional usage which has annum on their unpaid balances, and there is nothing in that Act to compel them to pay a penny of their balances, but they can remain breaking through this usage an important of the constitutional usage which has for its special object the enforcement of Ministerial responsibility; and that by breaking through this usage an important of the constitution o guarantee for Ministerial responsibility has been weakened. But is there not here a conpay interest. Under the Act of 1875 conditional purchasers are liable to the payment of interest after three years' grace, and they must also then begin to pay the balance of purchase money at the rate of one shilling per acre per annum, principal and interest included. But now it is proposed that all future conditional purchasers shall pay only the five shillings deposit and fifteen annual shilling instalments without interest, making the price paid exactly one pound per acre in fifteen years. Reckoning the interest at the rate of five per losses, who persuade the House to move the relations between Ministers and the Governor. Ministers, instead of advising the Governor, advise the House, and thereby in some sense subject the Governor to pressure. In such a case, when the expenditure is recommended, the Governor still, as a comparate of form, acts upon the advice of his Ministers. But the Governor does not accept this advice merely as that of man will. Ministers. But the Governor does not accept this advice merely as that of men who command generally the confidence of the House; "Bode, "Wings of Love; ""God Savethe "Queen."

The Victorian Racing Club's Spring Meeting will form one of the principal events of the colonies for the House has been specially ascertained and made known beforehand. The Ministry gains nothing as against the Assembly, by taking a preliminary vote upon the question; but it does gain something as against a Governor who might possibly act upon his own judgment, if the opinion of the Assembly were doubtful.

THE BUSHRANGING OUTRAGE IN

TBY TELEGRAPH.]

MELBOURNE, TRUBEDAY.

A telegram from Mansfield states that a search party started for the camp occupied by Kennedy and his companions. Mr. Sparrow accompanied them, and first found Sergeant Kennedy's body, covered with his own cloak. The features could scarcely be recognised, they were so covered with blood and maggots. The body was found near M'Intyre's retreating track, and he is supposed to have been abot at the time M'Intyre escaped. The body was found to be pierced by three balls, one going through the lungs. The jacket was singed as if the shots had been fired at close quarters, and the mark of the bullets was found in a tree, within two yards of the bodye Kennedy was evidently trying to escape, and getting to shelter behind a tree, and following constable M'Intyre's track. It is believed that the bushrangers have taken Kennedy's watch, valued at £50. The body was MELBOURNE, THURSDAY. Rennedy's watch, valued at £50. The body was brought into Mansfield this afternoon. There is a scarcity of arms and horsemen to scour the district.

A telegram from the police at Chiltern states that Kelly and three others stuck up Niel Christian, at Bun-gowannah, on the banks of the Murray, opposite Howlong, before daylight on Wednesday morning. They obtained provisions from Christia threatened to kill him if he gave informs

MANSFIELD, THURSDAY, MANSFIELD, THURSDAY.

The search party in quest of sergeant Kennedy resched the halting-place for the night about half-past G last evening, and camped there for the night. The party numbered in all, including the police, twenty-five persons. An early start was made this morning at half-past 5, the party being provided with provisions for the day. They headed for the vicinity of the scene of the late encounter, when the party formed themselves into an extended line and scoured the country until they reached the place where the murder had been committed. After consultation it was decided to scouy for a mile in the where the muricar had been committed. After consultation it was decided to scour for a mile in the direction of M'Intyre's escape tracks. Half-a-mile had scarcely been searched when a coo-se from Mr. Sparrow brought the party together, and it was then found that the body of the unfortunate sergeant Kennedy had been discovered. This was about eight o'clock. The body was stretched out, and covered by a uniform clock. Upon the reward of the Kennedy had been discovered. This was about eight o'clock. The body was stretched out, and covered by a uniform clock. Upon the removal of the clock, the body 'presented a partially decomposed appearance, particularly where the wounds were visible. The remains were then partially pleaced in a bag and raised to the back of a horse by Mr. Tomkins and constable Orr. A cart was then sent for to meet the procession, and the body was conveyed to the halting-place, which it reached at 11 o'clock. The body was found on M'Intyre's return tracks. The party reached Mansfield about 3 o'clock, the news having previously been brought by Mesers. Tomkins and Hageman. The body now lies in the morgue awaiting a post-mortem examination and inquiry, which will be held to-morrow morning. The unfortunate man is scarcely recognisable, except by general appearance and the clothing. The face is quite blackened, the nose partially gone, and there is one large hole in the breast as if a rifle had been put close to the body and fixed after Kennedy had fallen. His clothes were burnt in the spot and around the wound. The right ear appeared to have been cut off as with a knife. There is also a bullet wound under the right arm. The return party report that they met a party of opolice from Gerta, which was originally organised to act in concert with Kennedy's party. The Greta police stated having come upon the tracks of Kelly's party last evening by discovering a native bear recently shot by a rifle ball; they are now following up the tracks, but are badly equipped. Volunteers also report that wherever the pelice are met with they are found inadequately equipped, possessing only one rifle between five troopers, and that was borrowed on the road. They are disheartened from the fact that they cannot cope with the outlasts of whom they are in pursuit, armed as the latter are with breechloaders. The police generally complain of want of rifles and ammunition.

A CENTRAL OFFICE FOR STEAMERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD. TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The office close to the General Post Office, recently swetch by the Government for public accommodation for issue of railway passenger and parcels tickets, will doubtless prove to be a boon, because it will be the means of saving time and trouble, but I think an opening exists of a similar character in another direction.

There are a great number of steam ships plying to and from Sydney, and the offices of their several companies are scattered at distant and inconvenient angles from the centre of the metropolia.

from Sydney, and the offices of their several companies are scattered at distant and inconvenient angles from the centre of the metropolis.

Those who wish to select cabins, pay passage money, or reights, or make the ordinary daily inquiries apparaining to passanger or goods traffic, now wasts a deal of unnecessary time and labour.

What I make venture to think is wanted is a Central Office for all steamers, at which the public could call, and promptly settle its business. Each steam ship company could have its separate compartment in that office, without interfering with the business of its neighbour or competitor. A telegraph wire could be laid on from this central office to each of the steamship company's head quarters, so that any doubtful matters could be decided without delay. Plans of all steamers of course would be open to the public. With an international Exhibition just forthcoming, and the great increase of traffic naturally to be anticipated, such an office is really a necessity. Yours traly, Sydney, October 31.
